ERIC LAMEIGNERE

Following his Ph D in medicinal chemistry at France's National Centre for Scientific Research and some initial research experience at Rhône-Poulenc Rorer in the UK, Eric Lameignère completed his training with a MBA from the Euromed Business School in Marseille, France.

Prior to becoming Director of Corporate Development in a listed life sciences company (NYSE Euronext Paris) and contributing to the incorporation of several SMEs, Eric spent twelve years in big pharmas, with an initial focus on development of new chemical entities. He was head of Evaluation/biotech collaborations at Sanofi-Synthelabo. He spent 10 years at Genopole, the French historical biocluster, where he was Member of the Executive Committee, in charge of ventures development. Eric joined Caelestys during winter 2015 as Chief Scientific Officer to develop a personalised nutrition service based on individualised phenotypic and genotypic information.

Eric served as Member of Medicen Strategic Committee (Paris Region global competitiveness cluster), and Member of the board of Incuballiance, the Paris-Saclay University Public Incubator.
