

Frank Odds is Professor of Medical Mycology at the University of Aberdeen. He has worked for many years on the epidemiology, pathogenesis and diagnosis of Candida infections, and the discovery and development of antifungal agents. He has received a number of prizes and honours for his work in the field and is listed in the ISI “Most Highly Cited Scientists in Microbiology” database.