CV- Andreas Löschel

Professor Andreas Löschel is head of the department "Environmental and Resource Economics, Environmental Management" at the Centre for European Economic Research (ZEW) and Professor of Economics at the University of Heidelberg. He serves as Lead Author in the Working Group III contribution to the IPCC Fifth Assessment Report (2010-2014) and is Research Associate at the Centre for Climate Economics and Policy, Crawford School of Economics & Government, Australian National University (ANU) in Canberra. Between 2005 and 2007, he was working as Scientific Officer for the European Commission at the Institute for Prospective Technological Studies, Seville, Spain. He was visiting scholar at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) (2003), Stanford University (2005) and ANU (2010) as well as visiting professor at the Universidad Pablo de Olavide, Seville (2006-2007). Löschel studied Economics at Erlangen-Nuremberg (Diplom-Volkswirt), the University of California, at Los Angeles (UCLA) and Wayne State University, Detroit (M.A.). He obtained his PhD from the University of Mannheim (2003) and his Habilitation in Economics from the University of Oldenburg. His research interests are international environmental economics, especially the economics of climate change and energy policy, and quantitative economic modeling. He has published widely in these areas. The Handelsblatt ranking of German speaking economists lists him consecutively among the Top-100 Economists under 40 (2007-2010).
