BIO

Esther Canónico

Dr. Esther Canónico is currently a Fellow at LSE. She holds a PhD in Organisational Behaviour from LSE and an MBA from London Business School (UK). Her research interests include work-life interface, flexible working practices, diversity in the workplace and organizational change.

She is particularly interested in understanding the mechanisms that prevent diversity in the workplace and the effectiveness of organizational practices that help to promote it. Dr. Canónico has management experience in the telecom and financial sectors. Prior to joining the LSE in 2011, she was with British Telecom for a decade, holding several senior management positions in transformation programme management, business development and strategic partnership management. Before BT, she was a member of the team that created enba, an internet start-up which provided innovative retail financial services in the UK. Dr. Canónico started and built her professional career in French, Spanish and U.S. corporates in the financial sector.

She is a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy and a member of several UK and international organizations such as the Gender and Diversity in Organizations Division of the Academy of Management, and the Work and Family Researchers Network.
